PROFESSOR ALEX. C. BARRY'S

TRICOPHEROUS, or Medicated Compound,

FOR beautifying, improving, and preserving the Hair, curing cuts, bruises, burns, stings, rheumatism, and all irritations of the skin. A preparation the sale of which amounts to one million of bottles annually would seem to need no advertisement; but as the thousands who purchase, use, and approve of it, have probably no idea of the enormous extent of the business done by Professor Barry, he gives herewith a plain statement of facts derived from his books, and with them tenders his earnest and hearty thanks to his innumerable patrons.

Professor Barry's accounts of sales for the year 1852, show that during that year about 910,000 bottles of his Tricopherous were disposed of, and that the cash product of this immense sale was nearly $200,000.

This plain, unvarnished tale is a better commentary on the value of the article than any thing its inventor could say. If it were not popular in its effect upon the hair—if it were not invaluable as a household remedy for cuts, bruises, burns, skin diseases, &c.—it would not, of course, be so universally in demand. The wealthy portion of the public would buy it at any price, but Professor Barry has reduced it to a figure so low that the poor can avail themselves of its benefits.

Sold in large bottles [price 25 cents] at wholesale and retail at the manufactory and depot 137 Broadway, New York, and by the principal merchants and druggists throughout the United States and Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Great Britain, France, &c.

For sale in Bangor by G. F. SARGENT.

John Bunyan's Immortal Allegory.

PROBABLY no book, save the Bible, has been so extensively read as Bunyan's inimitable allegory,

The Pilgrim's Progress.

It has been translated into nearly all the different languages of Christendom, and been perused with delight and holy fervor by all nations. Art has lent her attractions in nearly all the forms of illustration, from the rough Wood Cut to the exquisite Steel Engraving. But to the middle of the nineteenth century, and to an American clergyman, are we indebted for the only pictorial conception of this immortal work.

The novel and sublime idea of embodying the entire story, and transferring the same to a single picture, showing the wanderings of Christian from the "City of Destruction" to the Celestial City, presenting at one view to the eye the varied scenes through which he passed, originated with Rev. DANIEL WIGHT of Massachusetts. His truly original and beautiful conception was reduced to a most elegant design by HAMMATT BILLINGS, and from this design JOSEPH ANDREWS, the distinguished historical engraver, has produced, after four years of labor, a picture which will take rank among the most superb and elaborate productions of human genius, taste and skill.

The picture is now ready and will be offered at the Bookstore of the Publishers, and by Agents duly appointed by the Publishers.

NOW READY:

The New Methodist Singing Book!

LUTE OF ZION.

By I. B. Woodbury, assisted by Rev. H. Mattison, Pastor of the John Street Methodist Church.

IT comprises nearly one Thousand pieces of the choicest Music, including almost every old tune of any merit ever published; it represents some two hundred of the finest composers the world ever saw, and contains every variety of meter now in use, with copious indexes to every part. The LUTE is therefore held with truth to be an almost exhaustless mine of the richest Sacred Musical Treasures ever presented to the public. Glowing with the animation and burning zeal of the communion for which it is designed, the tunes are nevertheless equally adapted to the Hymn Books of all denominations of Christians. Of Mr. Woodbury's last Book, the Dulcimer, have been issued since its appearance three years ago, and still the demand is on the increase. Is any further evidence of the admiration in which he is held as a Composer to be desired?

OVER 150,000 COPIES

From the enthusiasm with which the LUTE has already been greeted, a reception similar to that meted to the Dulcimer is confidently expected.

Any professional musician desiring a copy of either the Lute or Dulcimer for examination, can have it sent to him, free of postage, by remitting 60 cents to the Publisher.

McFarland's BURGLAR and FIRE PROOF SAFES!

A FEW of these celebrated Safes have arrived from New York, and those who are in want of a superior article which has been severely tested for the last ten years in every county are invited to call and examine them. Read what the New York Press say of them in regard to the late great fire in New York. Further comment is unnecessary.

[From the Journal of Commerce of August 27th.]

Messrs. B. F. Pond & Hitchcock, of 56 Water street, oil merchants, inform us that their Safe (one of McFarland's Fire Proof,) at the great fire of the Pearl st House, although exposed for thirteen hours to the combined effects of burning Rosin and other Oils, and a broken Gas Pipe directly underneath it, preserved their books and papers in the most perfect order. They were not injured in the least manner.

[From the New York Evening Mirror of Aug 27th.]

McFARLAND'S SAFES AT THE GREAT FIRE OF THE PEARL STREET HOUSE.—Looking at the ruins of this great fire yesterday, we noticed in Water street several of McFarland's Safes, which were being taken out of the ruins, the insides of which were all in good order. One of them in particular deserves especial notice. It belonged to Messrs. Pond and Hitchcock, oil merchants, No. 56 Water street, and was exposed to the very hottest part of the fire, being covered with burning oil and spirits, and directly under a broken gas pipe from which the gas was escaping in large quantities, and producing an intense heat. It remained in this fiery furnace for thirteen hours, and we are informed by Mr. Pond, the owner, that when opened his books and papers were found to be in a perfect state of preservation, not even being scorched and hardly bearing the smell of fire, thus proving itself a perfect salamander. Every merchant should examine them and convince himself of their fire proof qualities, as some half dozen others of the same make were in the fire, and every one preserved its contents from the least damage.

[From the New York Tribune of August 30th.]

The reputation of McFarland's celebrated Fire Proof Safes have lost nothing at the last great fires, as in all preserving their contents uninjured, and saving many thousand of dollars for their owners. These safes have built for themselves a colossal reputation, and are adding to it at every fire. Mr. Farland's motto is "Excelsior."

[From the New York Herald, Aug 29th.]

Another convincing proof of the superiority of McFarland's Fire Proof Safes over all others as a protection against fire is the Safe which can now be seen at the ruins of the great fire on Tuesday night at the Pearl st House, where it was exposed in the oil store of Messrs. Pond & Hitchcock, No. 56 Water st., for thirteen hours to the combined effects of burning oil and spirits. Books and papers inside were not even scorched.

☞ These Safes are for sale at No. 19 West Market Square, Bangor.

Begging System in Europe

It seems that American travelers are not alone in condemning the system of begging practiced in the public hotels and vehicles of travel in Europe. Victor Hugo, the famous French writer, in his new book of travels on "the Rhine," gives his experience as follows:

"Upon the border of the Rhine, as at other places, it is much frequented; the traveler is obliged to have his hand [illegible] in communion with his pocket. [illegible] the traveler—that precious article—is [illegible]; hospitality is no longer in receiving the weary traveler with soft words and cordial looks. I will give an idea of the extent to which the stretching out of the hand system is carried out among the intelligent natives of this country. Remember there is no exaggeration—only the truth. On entering a town an understrapper of certain hotel that you intend putting up at, asks for your passport, takes it and puts it into his pocket. The horses stop, you look round and find that you are in a court yard—that your present journey is terminated. The driver, who has not exchanged a word with any one during the journey, alights, opens the door, and extends his hand with an air of modesty—"Remember the driver." A minute elapses; the postilion presents himself, and makes an harangue, which signifies "Don't forget me." The luggage is uncorded; a tall, fleshless animal sets your portmanteau gently upon the ground, with your nightcap on the top of it; another creature more curious perhaps than the latter puts your chattels upon a wheelbarrow, asks the name of the hotel you have fixed upon, then runs before you, pushing his shapeless machine. No sooner arrived at the hotel than the host approaches, and begins a dialogue which ought to be written in all languages upon the doors of the respective auberges.

"Good day, sir."

"If you have a spare room, I should like to engage it."

"Very well, sir. Thomas, conduct this gentleman to No. 4."

"I should like something to eat."

"Immediately, sir, immediately."

You go to No. 4, where you find your luggage has arrived. A man appears; it is the person who conveyed the luggage to the hotel. "The porter, sir." A second makes his appearance. "What the devil does he want?" It is the person who carried your luggage into the room. You say to him—

"Very well, I shall pay you, on leaving, with the other servants."

"Monsieur," the man replies, with a supplicating air, "I don't belong to the hotel."

There is no alternative—disburse. You take a walk, a handsome church presents itself. You cannot think of passing it, no, no, you must go in, for it is not every day you meet such a structure. You walk round, gazing at everything; at last a door meets your view. Jesus says "compelle intrare," the priests ought to keep the doors open, but the beadles shut them in order to get a few sous. An old woman, who has perceived your embarrassment, comes and shows you a bell by the side of a small wicket. You ring, the wicket is opened, and the beadle stands before you.

"Can I see the interior of the church?"

"Certainly," the old man replies, a sort of grim smile lighting up his grave countenance.

He draws out a bunch of keys, and directs his steps towards the principal entrance. Just as you are about to go in, something seizes you by the skirts of your coat; you turn round; it is the obliging old woman, whom you have forgotten, ungrateful wretch, to reward—"pay!" You at last find yourself in the interior of the church; you contemplate, admire, and are struck with wonder.

"Why is that picture covered with green cloth?"

"Because," the beadle replies, "it is the most beautiful painting in the church."

"What!" you say, in astonishment, "the best picture hidden, elsewhere it is exposed to view. Who is it by?"

"Rubens."

"I should like to see it."

The beadle leaves you, and in a few minutes returns with an old, pensive looking individual by his side. It is the church warden. This worthy person presses a spring, the curtain draws, and you behold the picture. The painting seen, the curtain closes, and the church-warden bows significantly—"Pay, pay." On continuing your walk in the church, preceded by the beadle, you arrive at the door of the choir, before which a man has taken up his stand in patient expectation. It is a Swiss who has charge of the choir. You walk round it, and on leaving, your attentive cicerone graciously salutes you—"Only a trifle." You find yourself again with the beadle, and soon after pass before the sacristy. O wonder of wonders, the door is open. You enter, and a sexton [illegible]. The beadle retires, for the other must be left alone with his prey. The sexton smiles, shows you the urns, the ecclesiastical ornaments, and decorated windows, bishops' mitres, and in a box the skeleton of some saint dressed as troubadour. You have seen the sacristy, therefore must pay. The beadle again appears, and leads you to the ladder that conducts to the tower. A view from the steeple must be truly delightful. You decide on going up. The beadle pushes a door open, you climb up about thirty steps, then you find that a door which is locked prevents your proceeding farther. You look back, and are surprised that the beadle is no longer with you—that you are alone. What's to be done? You knock, a face appears, it is that of the bellman. He opens the door, for which kind action—"Pay." You proceed on your way—are delighted to find yourself alone—that the bellman has not followed. You then begin to enjoy the pleasure of solitude and arrive with a light heart at the high platform of the tower. You look about, come and go, admire the blue sky, the smiling country, and the immense horizon. Suddenly you perceive an unknown animal walking by your side; then your ears are dinned with things you know and perhaps care little about. It turns out to be the explicateur, who fills the high office of explaining to the stranger the magnificence of the steeple, the church, and the surrounding country. This man is ordinarily a stutterer, sometimes deaf; you do not listen to him, you forget him in contemplating the churches, the streets, the trees, the rivers, and the hills. When you have seen all, you think of descending, and direct your steps to the top of the ladder. The bellman is there before you. "Pay."

"Very well," you say, fingering your purse, which is momentarily dissolving, "how much must I give you?"

"I am charged two francs for each person, which sum goes to the church revenue, but, sir, you must give me something for my trouble."

You descend; the beadle makes his appearance, and conducts you with respect to the door of the church. So much trouble cannot fail to be well rewarded.

You return to your hotel, and have scarcely entered when you see a person approaching you with a familiar air, which is totally a stranger to you. It is the understrapper who took your passport, and who now returns with it—to be paid. You dine; the hour of your departure comes, and a servant brings you in the bill—Pay; also a consideration for the trouble of taking the money. An ostler carries your portmanteau to the diligence—you must remember him. You get in the vehicle; you begin the same course to-morrow.

Let us recapitulate. Something to the driver, a trifle to the postilion, the man who does not belong to the hotel, to the old woman, to Rubens, to the Swiss, to the sexton, to the bellman, to the church revenue, to the beadle, to the passport keeper, to the servants, and to the ostler. How many pays do you call that in a day? Remember, every one must be silver; copper is looked upon here with the greatest contempt, even by a bricklayer's laborer.

John S. Sayward, Editor.

FRIDAY, NOV. 11, 1853.

☞ More than a dozen years ago, Amory Washburn, the present Whig candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, stood up in his place in the Legislature of that State and advocated with touching eloquence and cogent reasoning, the propriety, safety and necessity of the State of Massachusetts granting the use of its credit for the construction of the Western Railroad. He represented at that time the town of Worcester, the citizens of which generally felt that they were well accommodated with railroad facilities, and who supposed that the extension of the road would unfavorably affect them. But Mr. Washburn looked beyond the momentary interests of his constituents to the result of years, and did not hesitate to do all in his power to aid the plan of the Western Railroad to Albany, by which the State would be benefitted in a much greater degree than it was probable or possible for Worcester to suffer. It was a time then of doubt. The project met with great opposition. The cry was raised that the farms were all mortgaged and that in a few years they would be foreclosed and seized to pay the debt. The credit was granted and Massachusetts thereby has received immense advantages from the railroad, and is still receiving benefit, and is destined to realize still more, and yet it has cost her nothing, and not the first cent of debt or interest has she to pay. Without the aid thus rendered, that great enterprize of the Western Railroad could not have been carried through, and Massachusetts must have waited many years and lingered behind the times for want of a system of railroads which has grown out of the success of that enterprize.

The citizens of Portland a few years since found their city languishing for want of business—her real estate a drug, and her prospects becoming dubious, when they set themselves energetically at work to arouse the drowsiness of that city and give an impulse to labor and prosperity, by the construction of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad. Every individual, male and female, was called upon to take stock as the only salvation of the city: corporations were importuned, and to this one great work all energies were bent, all efforts united, and the work was carried forward to the extent of all the means then at command; but the work was not completed—the enterprize needed a new impulse, and instead of the amount of money embarked in it by the citizens of Portland being sunk in the shape of bonds and other shaves to insure the completion of the road, the credit of the city was granted and the work has been finished. During the construction and partial working of the road, the impulse given to all other branches of business and labor, has been very great and manifest: real estate has risen, buildings and wharves have multiplied, great improvements have been effected; and the city of Portland is in a highly prosperous condition. No paper of the road has been dishonored, and now the city is secured most amply and fully, and the stockholders have the value of the money they embarked.

These facts are suggestive. The citizens of Bangor have for years felt the want of railroad communication with the railroad system of the country, for lack of which they were losing a valuable portion of their trade and suffering many inconveniences, and were likely to suffer greater and greater damage, until they came to the deliberate conclusion that they could not afford, longer, to remain destitute of this railroad connection. They subscribed to the stock to the amount of half a million of dollars, and the road has been contracted for at terms much below what others had previously demanded. The expenditures in the construction of the road is now about twenty-two thousand dollars a month, and there has already been expended in the construction of the whole line from Bangor to Waterville, the sum of $108,000, which has been paid by the Company. The heavy work near this city has been put forward in such a manner as will ensure its readiness for the rail by June next, and the whole line from Bangor to Merrill's Mill in Carmel, a distance of sixteen miles, can be finished in July next. On the other end of the road three miles of the road are built and the engine is running over it from Waterville to Kendall's Mills, under an arrangement with the Androscoggin and Kennebec Railroad. The bridge across the Kennebec river at Kendall's Mills is now being built, and the superstructure will be ready to be put on early in the spring. Between Burnham and the Kennebec river workmen have been engaged in grading, since July last. The sections between Burnham and Newport are now sublet, and the workmen were placed upon them the present week. The whole line is in progress, except the sections between Newport Village and Merrill's Mill, a distance of about nine miles. This work is not heavy and if commenced in the spring it can be graded by September next.

We have been somewhat minute in giving the foregoing statements regarding the progress of the road, because we suppose that our citizens and the stockholders generally feel an interest in the subject. We would remark here that the statement we have previously made regarding the amount of subscription, bona fide and reliable of half a million of dollars, is substantially correct, for the contractors have made such arrangements as bring their stock into available means.

The matter to be seriously considered now is, whether the work thus well begun shall greatly needed, and which, when completed, will pay a handsome interest to the stockholders,—open up many valuable resources of natural wealth—stimulate labor and business—set in motion many forces of enterprize, and give our city a new start in its progress, and warm it to active life other roads and means of improvement.—This is but one step in the progress of our times, but it is a first step, and this step must be taken before others can expect to will be likely to make any progress. If this work, thus begun and partially carried forward cannot be completed, we do not see how others can have the courage even to begin. But if this work is pushed forward to completion as a first work, then others will naturally and easily follow, and all the railroad enterprizes will in this way be accomplished in their order and in good time. This road from Bangor to Waterville is first in inception, first in order geographically, as connecting Bangor with the railroad system of the country, first in order of importance, and first in its progress, and first, by all means, in necessity.

To complete the road there are, really, but two ways left. One is, and it is a most too crushing and unjust to be thought of as a practical way, the victimizing the present stockholders in the sale of bonds on the road, which would hopelessly sink the present stock, and thus result in an actual loss of it to the stockholders for the benefit of those who may furnish the means to complete the road.

But there is, in fact, no real necessity for this, as there is another and a fairer and better way, which has been resorted to in most communities where railroads have first been constructed, a course which Massachusetts has adopted and the city of Portland found successful, and which has been resorted to by Bath, Brunswick, Bowdoinham, Richmond, Gardiner, Hallowell, and Augusta, without injury, and that course, is the granting the credit of the city, on ample security to perfect the road.

The Penobscot and Kennebec railroad Company has, as we have shown, made a noble progress in a great work—the construction of the road from Bangor to Waterville. The necessity and importance of this means of communication our citizens well understand, and they have frequently approved of the enterprise and many of them have put in a portion of their capital for its construction. A good foundation has been laid in the construction of the road, so far, for a credit, and in order to secure the completion of the road in the shortest time, and to give the city and country and all interested, the benefit of the early running of the road, the city should extend the helping hand of the loan of its credit for a sum equal to that expended by the Railroad Company. This can be done without embarrassing the city and without increasing, to the amount of a single farthing, any man's taxes.

It is no new thing to do this, as we have already abundantly shown, and which is well known. It is, indeed, a very common thing for states and for cities to do, and we have yet to learn of any state or city where this course has proved injurious.

This subject of granting the loan of the credit of the city, is one on which every citizen should readily agree. It is now the only fair and just manner of insuring the early completion of the road, and which, when done, every one will be able to see will greatly advance the business, population and prosperity of the city.

There is a difficulty, and only one difficulty, in the way, and that arises from the combination of similar enterprises now contemplated. But why crowd several enterprises together to the injury of all of them, when, by taking them separately they may all be completed in due time and in regular succession? It does not seem to us either just or wise to force the whole at the same moment to the embarrassment and injury of each, when, by taking hold of one and completing it, it will give greater union, energy and ability in completing the others.

It is possible, barely possible that there may be those who would be willing to jumble all enterprises together in order to defeat the whole, and whose conservatism is so extremely fossil as to lead them to see any sacrifice suffered by others, rather than the credit of the city should be pledged, though secured by gold deposited in the Treasury. But such men are not the fit directors of the public sentiment of these times. They have their place and their use, but it is not in the direction of true progress. Their office is to grasp—they serve, occasionally to hold back—they are the britchings of the harness, but not its traces—they have no influence in a forward movement, and it is not often that society is benefitted by backing.

The young, active, vigorous, enterprising men of our city wish to move forward—not to remain stationary, or to go backward. They see other communities prospering by enterprises which have been neglected here—they see that Bangor may prosper by the use of railroad facilities to the interior, and in connection with railroads West, and to Canada. It is for them, then—it is their right and their duty having reference always to the fair security of the city, to make use of the credit of the city in helping forward the railroad to Waterville.

Our columns to-day contain a notice numerously signed, for a public meeting of all in favor of granting the credit of the city to the completion of this road, to be held at the City Hall on Saturday, to-morrow, evening. We trust the meeting will be a large and an earnest one, as we feel fully satisfied that if the subject is fully understood in all its length and breadth, effects and consequences, that our citizens will by an almost unanimous vote decide in favor of loaning the credit of the city for the early completion of the Bangor and Waterville Railroad.

Court Courier.

We find in the Portland papers the following opinions of the U. S. Circuit Court, held at Portland, by adjournment, on the 7th inst., which may be of interest to our friends of the legal profession:

Joshua W. Carr, assignee, vs Stephen Gale et al.

In this case it was held that, if a party who is surprised at the trial, allows it to proceed without making his surprise known and applying for delay, and the verdict is against him, he cannot have a new trial by reason of that surprise.

A new trial will not be granted, because a witness who gave a loose estimate of an amount at the trial, has since become satisfied his estimate was too large:

Nor contradict a witness as to a fact of no considerable importance, by negative evidence given nearly ten years after the event testified to:

Nor to impeach a witness, or disprove a statement which did not materially affect the legal aspect of the case.

Motion for new trial overruled, and judgment rendered on the verdict. The case, it is said, will go up to Supreme Court on Writ of Error. Fessenden & Deblois for plf., J. S. Rowe & E. H. Davies for dft.

Joshua W. Carr, assignee in equity, vs Stephen Hilton.

A creditor of a bankrupt is not a competent witness for the assignee, in a suit to increase the estate.

Evidence that a statement was made to a Court, by counsel, in the presence of the complainant, who was not a party, is inadmissible.

To avoid the bar of the statute of limitations, the complainant, must not only allege his ignorance of the fraud, but when and how it was discovered; and must offer satisfactory evidence to prove these averments

Information which makes it the duty of a party to make inquiry, and shows where it may be effectually made, is notice of all facts to which such enquiry might have led. But a party thus put on enquiry is to be allowed a reasonable time to make it before he is affected with notice.

Bill dismissed. Henry Warren & F. Allen for plf. D. D. Stewart for dft.

Richard R. Arey, Libellant vs The Brig Ann C. Pratt and L. B. Pratt, master and claimant.

In a suit in rem by a mate, to recover his wages, under the shipping articles, the court cannot investigate an allegation of misconduct as master, while in the temporary command of the vessel as master, on a voyage during which the master was not on board, with a view of inflicting a forfeiture of wages as mate.

Decree of the district court affirmed, deducting $50 from the wages decreed therein, and no costs for either party on the appeal. J. S. Rowe for Libellant, Willis & Fessenden for Respondent.

Stoves at St. Louis.— The St. Louis News gives some particulars of the increase of a single department of business in that city. It says:

"The first stoves ever made in St. Louis were made by Bridge & Brother, in the year 1842, and were exhibited in that year at the Fair of the Mechanic's Institute, which at that time existed in this city. The exhibition of those St. Louis stoves created unusual surprise, and where the cause, at first, of some reproach on Mr. Bridge, who had, as was supposed, introduced among St. Louis wares the product of foreign labor. * * * When the fact was established beyond dispute that the stoves were made in St. Louis, and constituted the begining of a new and important era in St. Louis manufactures, there was no small degree of chagrin evinced by those "workers of iron" then in this city, who had not ventured to harbor the idea that a stove could be made in St. Louis. These events happened only eleven years ago, and now what do we see? The small beginning, represented by a few stoves at the Fair, has grown into one of the best branches of St. Louis manufactures. We learn that the number of stoves manufactured in St. Louis amounts to at least 30,000 a year. The number of persons employed in and about the stove founderies is about 800."

Value of Agriculture.—In his address at the Queen's County (N. Y.) Agricultural Fair Professor James J. Mapes asked:

May I call your attention for a moment to the value of root crops? Mr. Webster has said, and with truth, that two years successive failure of turnip crop in England would bankrupt the country. Her wool and manufacturing interests would be prostrated, while the supply of mutton consequent upon this crop, could scarcely be replaced by other meats.—The cattle raiser can, with comparatively few acres of land, supply himself with root crops for Winter feeding, and present his animals fattened in the Spring; and instead of having been merely sustained on dry fodder, or if fattened at a cost far beyond that in which root crops have formed a part in the course of feeding. Carrots are of immense value, both to the dairyman and the farmer. One bushel of carrots, with one bushel of oats, will create as much flesh as two bushels of oats,—not that the carrots contain the same amount of nutriment, but that they enable the animal to appropriate all the constituents of the oats for flesh making. For milch cows it is still more important; for by gelatinizing the contents of the stomach, which is done by the pectic acid contained in the carrot, the food is entirely digested and its ultimates appropriated; and the milk and butter from cows fed partly on carrots, even in mid-winter, is equal in quality to that raised in May from a clover pasture. A horse never has the heaves when fed in part on carrots; a sleek coat and loose hide being the most invariable results of such feeding. Nor will his excreta contain the shells of undigested oats; even the hay undergoes exact appropriation, lesser quantities producing greater results. For fattening animals the economy of root feeding cannot be doubted. The experiments of a Mr. James Campbell, published in the Working Farmer, settle this fact beyond dispute.

California One Hundred and Fifty Years Ago.—The following description of this country as it was a century and a half ago, is taken from the published transactions of the London Royal Society, from 1700 1720, and printed in the year 1731:—

"California, the Peninsula, has been known nearly two centuries. Its coasts are famous for pearl fisheries. Nor do I doubt that there are mines to be found in several places if they were sought for since the country is under the same degree as the provinces of Sinaloa and Sonora, where there are very rich ones. Heaven has been so bountiful to the Californians, that the earth brings forth, of itself, what it does not produce elsewhere without a great deal of labor and pains; yet they make no esteem of the plenty and of the riches of their country, contenting themselves with what is only necessary for life, and take little care for the rest. Parts of the country are very populus. They are a lively people. The climate is healthy. In the valleys excellent pasture, at all times, for great and small cattle, fine springs, wild grape vine; as it abounds in fruit, it does no less so in grain, of which there are fourteen sorts that the people feed on. They have plenty of red strawberries, of which they eat plentifully. Their citrons and water melons are of an extraordinary size. Most plants bear fruit three times a year. We brought, with us from New Spain, Indian, corn, wheat, peas, lentils, &c. We sowed them and had a very plentiful increase, though we had no cattle or proper implements to till the ground. We brought some cows and store of small cattle, as sheep goats, but our necessity obliged us to kill the greatest part of them. We likewise brought with us horses and colts to stock the country, and we began to breed up hogs; but, as these do a great deal of damage in the villages, and the women are afraid of them, we have resolved to extirpate them. The climate is so mild that the men go naked and the woman wear an apron covering from waist to knee.

☞ Among the contributions to the fund for erecting a monument to the little boy Inverson, "who died rather than steal," was one from La Porte, Ind., accompanying these lines.—

Hew the marble—lay the corner—
Let the monument arise!
For another Hero's fallen,
And his spirit walks the skies!
Mightier than Ajax was he—
Nobler than a Cæsar born!
And his name shall be immortal,
Spurning death with marbled scorn.
Raise the shaft—inscribe the tablet—
Carve the letters deep and bold,
Let the stone preach worlds the sermon,
"Truth is worthier than gold!"

An Important Rule prevailing in the Executive Departments. It should be generally known that any document which contains writing over an erasure made with a knife, or in any other manner, by which the word or words originally there are prevented from being understood, is deemed invalid, until satisfactory explanation shall have been made; and nothing except positive legal testimony is taken for such explanation. Those sending papers to the departments here should, therefore, be careful not to have them blotched, erased, or otherwise disfigured, unless fully accounted for when presented.—Washington Star.

From the Admiralty register of wrecks, recently presented to Parliament, it appears that in 1850 there were 681 British and foreign vessels wrecked on the coasts and in the seas of the United Kingdom, and 784 lives lost; that in 1851 there were 701 wrecks on the coasts, and, so far as could be ascertained, 750 lives lost; and that in 1852 there were no fewer than 1,100 vessels wrecked, and about 900 lives lost.

Intelligence from Mexico shows that possession of the Mesilla Valley is to be held jointly by Mexico and the United States, pending the negotiation. The result may be to divide the territory between the two parties. Such a partition will give us the route for a railroad to the Pacific.

Blunt, Whig District Attorney, is re-elected.

In ten wards the returns for Canal Commissioner are—Gardiner, (Whig) 8228; Mathews, (Hard) 5956; Yates, (Soft) 4998.

Returns for Canal Commissioner in the 5th, 6th, 8th and 9th wards give—Whig 3194; Hard 2378; Soft 1419. In the same wards the the Judge of the Court of Appeals stands:—Wood, (Whig) 3142; Ruggles, (Hard and Soft) 4078.

The Whig candidates for the Superior Court are elected: Clarke and Daly, democrats, are elected, Judges of the Supreme and Common Pleas Courts Spencer, (Soft) Lutt (Hard) and Whitney, (Whig) are elected to the Senate.

SEYMOUR'S GALVANIC ABDOMINAL SUPPORTER.
THIS apparatus possesses all the mechanical advantages of the Abdominal Supporters now in use, and also some valuable improvements beside the galvanic attachment. It has been tested, approved of, and universally adopted in the practice of all the leading Physicians in New York, Boston, and all other places where introduced, in the treatment of all Nervous diseases which exhibit themselves under so many different heads, and particularly in the cure of Uterine difficulties. The beneficial results which have uniformly attended the use of this instrument are a sufficient guaranty of its utility and general application. The advantages of this over other Supporters are, it cures by its Galvanic action, presents a smooth surface that does not retain heat or impurities which pass from the system, and can be kept pure and healthful.

The attention of the medical profession is respectfully solicited to an examination and test of the instrument. The above Supporters are for sale by GEO. W. EMERSON, Druggist, No. 4 Smith's Block, sole agent for Bangor and vicinity.

PORTLAND ADVERTISER.
DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY & WEEKLY.

THE Publishers of the Advertiser having recently, at great expense, made arrangements for the Daily publication of

The Boston papers do not arrive in this city until noon of the same day, and of course must be half a day behind the Advertiser in the same news, throughout this State.

To add to the interest and usefulness of the Advertiser, the DAILY has been
and its Publishers will spare no effort or expense to make it in every respect a first class newspaper.

Green Mountain Vegetable CEMENT.
BROKEN China, Glass, Earthen Ware, and Fancy Articles of every description, repaired and mended, making it as strong as before broken, without injuring its appearance.

This Cement, which has been proved to be of great strength, will be found particularly useful in every family; the simple manner of its application is alone a recommendation. The adhesive property which it contains is so wonderful that many things will rather break in a fresh place than where they have been mended with it. The variety of purposes for which it may be used are so numerous that it would be difficult to recite them. Its success in mending Glass, China, &c., is extraordinary, no ordinary degree of heat affecting it, and as the joints are scarcely perceptible, articles of this kind may be made useful for years, which otherwise would have been cast away.

TESTIMONIALS

The following certificate from Dr John C Warren of Boston was given 17 years since but will last forever

Boston Jan 5 1853

Having had occasion to observe that the persons afflicted with Hernia have suffered much from the want of a skilful workman in accommodating Trusses to the peculiarities of their cases I have taken pains to inform myself of the competency of Mr J F Foster to supply the deficiency occasioned by the death of Mr Beath—After some months of observation of his work I am well satisfied that Mr Foster is well acquainted with the manufacture of these instruments and ingenious in accommodating them to the variety of cases which occur I feel called upon to recommend him to my professional brethren and to the public as a person well fitted to supply their wants in regard to these important articles

JOHN C WARREN M D

The undersigned take great pleasure in recommending to the favorable consideration of those who are unhappily afflicted with Hernia Mr James Frederick Foster as a skilful and competent person in the manufacture and fitting of Trusses We have employed him (some of us for twenty years) and therefore speak from personal knowledge of his abilities His early advantages, his long experience in the business and the large number of individuals whom he has relieved in a variety of cases render him in our opinion equal if not superior to any manufacturer of the article His father Den Gideon Foster, of Charlestown was master of the Poor house in that town for upwards of twenty four years during which period Mr Foster availed himself of the opportunity, and made application of Trusses to a great variety of cases, which are successful, some of which were of a very complicated and distressing character

It is well known to all who have occasion to wear a Truss that its great excellence consists in its adaptation to the body at the same time relieving the patient Any Truss maker may make a Truss, but none but a skilful artisan can apply it in such a manner as effectually to relieve the complaint

Our experience has convinced us that Mr Foster has thoroughly attained this knowledge The certificates of Dr J C Warren and other eminent surgeons which he has drawn from us fully sustain the opinion we here express

THE RED MAN, endowed by Nature, has superior skill in the art of compounding healing and soothing Medicines This fact has been acknowledged by thousands who have used

Dr. Hart's Genuine Indian Salve.

Every mother with children, and all heads of families should keep a box in the house and have it handy in case of accident.

Indian Salve cures Ulcers or Fever Sores.

Mr Ezekiel Ward of Gorham, Me, who for thirty years has been troubled with a very bad Ulcer or Fever Sore upon his ancle, which has at times been so inflamed and swollen that the skin would crack open, and the pain so intense as to deprive him of rest day or night, has, by the use of the Indian Salve, so far recovered as to be able to labor upon his farm with perfect ease and comfort.

Mr Andrew Hodgdon, of Falmouth, who has used the Indian Salve for a very bad Scrofulous Sore, says it gives him more comfort than all the remedies he has ever applied It relieves the inflammation, subdues the pain, and enables him to attend to his business as usual.

Indian Salve cures Piles.

A man in Buxton was entirely cured of a severe attack of this painful disease, by a few applications of this wonderful Salve Another Gentleman in Portland, says it gave him instant relief in a case of Piles of long standing.

Indian Salve cures Scald Head.

A boy in Lovell was cured of Scald Head, by the Indian Salve after many other well tried medicines had failed Another in Sebago was cured of this awful malady after four boxes of All Healing Ointment, and many other remedies had been used, with no good results A child in Portland was cured of a very bad case of Scald Head by using one box.

Indian Salve cures Poisoned Limbs

Two boys in Scarborough were cured of bad sores on their legs occasioned by being severely poisoned

Indian Salve cures Burns.

A gentleman in Portland had his hand very severely burned with phosphorous, and after trying many remedies with no good effect, was entirely cured with one box of Indian Salve In cases of Burns, if the Indian Salve is applied immediately, it draws out the fire and prevents blistering, and heals at once

Indian Salve cures Cuts and Bruises.

Mr E G Osgood had his thumb nail torn out by the roots, and says on applying the Indian Salve the pain subsided and healing took place at once

Indian salve is the best article in the World for Boils.

Mr D G Plummer, Hand [illegible] Market Square, Portland, used this excellent Salve for Boils, and says in subduing inflammation it is superior to any Salve he ever used—Mr Joseph Marks used it for a very painful Boil, and says there is no remedy equal to it for painful sores—Prof Crouch, of Portland used this celebrated Salve for a bad sore, and says it is a remarkable remedy So says every one that uses it.

Indian Salve is highly spoken of by all who have used it.

Self Acquired Fame!

For Internal and External Use.

THIS wonderful Medicine notwithstanding it has never had the advantage of newspaper publicity, has yet acquired a higher and more extended popularity than any other similar compound in the world It is entirely of vegetable extract perfectly safe to be administered even to the most delicate adult and alike astonishing and satisfactory in its effects upon man or beast To those unacquainted with this invaluable medicine we say Give it a fair trial, and we promise you a radical cure of Coughs Colds Asthma Bronchitis Whooping Cough Influenza, Spitting of Blood and all Lung Complaints, Chronic Diarrhoea and Dysentery in all of which cases it should be used internally The effects of its external application in cases of Rheumatism, Spinal Diseases Sprains Chapped Hands, Bruises Burns, and all descriptions of wounds are magical Persons troubled with Cramp in the Stomach, Side or Bowels, Sore Throat Piles &c by a combined internal and external application of this Anodyne cannot fail of certain and speedy cure The proprietor can produce volumes of testimonials to its favor but prefers to let it carry its own recommendations as it has done for forty years past We ask no man to use it after an unsatisfactory trial In its composition it unites several of the most penetrating and healing specifics known to the materia medica The inventor of this article was in the constant and successful practice of medicine for more than twenty years

This is to certify that having been troubled for a number of years with a distressing cough, and bleeding at the lungs, and receiving no benefit from medical aid in 1848 I was to all appearance in the last stage of consumption My legs swelled so that I was unable to stand or help myself At that time your Liniment was providentially recommended to me and by the use of three or four bottles I was entirely cured, and have since been able to labor every day I have also for the last twenty years been subject to severe attacks of Bloody dysentery and never found any permanent relief until I took your Liniment, since which I have had no return of this complaint I can truly say I think your Anodyne Liniment was the means of saving my life JOHN F ATKINS

Brewer, Sept 29, 1852.

DR JOHNSON Dear Sir—In consequence of having a fever sore on my leg it became entirely stiff at the knee and it was decided by the best surgeons that my leg must be amputated—but fortunately I heard of your Anodyne Liniment and by using three bottles my leg was limbered and strengthened and for a number of years I have been able to use it about as well as the other. I consider myself indebted to the use of your Liniment through the blessing of Providence for the use of my leg and would say to others who may need help in this way, try it, and no doubt you will be cured RUFUS CHAPMAN
